COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES, INJUNCTIVE RELIEF, AND OTHER RELIEF

100	SUPERIOR COURT OF WASHINGTON	100

102	FOR KING COUNTY	102
103		103
104	BO SHANG, an individual,	104
105	Plaintiff,	105
106	Case No	106
107	v.	107
108	COMPLAINT FOR DAMAGES,	108
109	AMAZON.COM, INC.,	109
110	Defendant.	110
111		111
112	INJUNCTIVE RELIEF, AND	112
113	OTHER RELIEF	113
114		114
115	I INTRODUCTION	115
116	1. Plaintiff, Bo Shang ("Plaintiff"), brings this action against Amazon.com, Inc. ("Amazon" or "Defendant"),	116
117	alleging that Defendant sold or facilitated the sale of a stolen Google Pixel 7A smartphone through its	117
118	Amazon Prime shipping program, in contravention of Washington law prohibiting trafficking or possession	118
119	of stolen property.	119
120	1.1. See RCW 9A.56.140170 (defining possession of stolen property and trafficking in stolen property).	120
121	1.2. See also RCW 9A.56.010(20) (defining "stolen" as property wrongfully obtained by theft).	121
122	2. Plaintiff discovered that the Pixel 7A was reported stolen only after using the device past Amazon's	122
123	90-day return window. In response, Amazon:	123
124	2.1. Required Plaintiff to personally drop off the stolen phone at an Amazon-approved site (risking potential	124
125	criminal liability for transporting stolen goods).	125
126	2.2. Imposed a 20% "restocking fee" on the allegedly stolen item despite the fact that the 90-day limitation	126
127	was exceeded only because the theft status was undiscoverable through ordinary, good-faith use.	127
128	3. Critically, the phone's IMEI was blacklisted by the carrier, Visible, leading Visible to lock Plaintiff's entire	128
129	cellular account. Because that account remains locked for lack of verified IMEI clearance, Plaintiff has been	129
130	unable to receive text/call verifications for vital personal and financial services for over three weeks,	130
131	causing serious economic and personal harm.	131
132	3.1. See CTIA – The Wireless Association, Best Practices to Deter Stolen Device Trafficking;	132
133	3.2. 47 U.S.C. § 201(b) (FCC authority over common carriers; carriers block or investigate phones flagged	133
134	stolen to protect network integrity and consumers).	134

135	4. Accordingly, Plaintiff brings causes of action under the Washington Consumer Protection Act (RCW	135
136	19.86), Breach of Implied Warranty of Merchantability (RCW 62A.2-314), Negligence / Negligent	136
137	Misrepresentation, and other theories. Plaintiff seeks damages (including treble damages under the CPA),	137
138	injunctive relief, attorneys' fees (if permitted by law), and all other appropriate remedies.	138
139		139
140	II JURISDICTION AND VENUE	140
141	5. Subject Matter Jurisdiction	141
142	5.1. This Court has jurisdiction pursuant to RCW 2.08.010, which grants superior courts original jurisdiction	142
143	in all civil actions involving amounts beyond the statutory limits for courts of limited jurisdiction.	143
144	6. Personal Jurisdiction	144
145	6.1. Defendant is headquartered in Seattle, King County, Washington, and conducts substantial business	145
146	there, thus "purposely availing" itself of the benefits of Washington law.	146
147	6.2. Personal jurisdiction is proper under RCW 4.28.185 and International Shoe Co. v. Washington, 326	147
148	U.S. 310 (1945).	148
149	7. Venue	149
150	7.1. Venue is proper in King County under RCW 4.12.025(1) because Defendant's principal place of	150
151	business is located in King County, and substantial events giving rise to Plaintiff's claims occurred in King	151
152	County.	152
153		153
154	III PARTIES	154
155	8. Plaintiff, Bo Shang, is an individual residing at 10 McCafferty Way, who purchased a stolen Pixel 7A	155
156	smartphone from or via Amazon's Prime program.	156
157	9. Defendant, Amazon.com, Inc., is a Delaware corporation with its principal place of business at 410 Terry	157
158	Avenue North, Seattle, Washington 98109.	158
159		159
160	IV FACTUAL BACKGROUND	160
161	10. Purchase of Allegedly Stolen Device	161
162	10.1. On or about [date], Plaintiff purchased a Google Pixel 7A labeled "Amazon Prime."	162
163	10.2. Plaintiff later discovered (through manufacturer/carrier data, a police report, or other verification) that	163
164	the phone's IMEI had been reported stolen prior to purchase, making the device contraband under	164
165	Washington law.	165
166	RCW 9A.56.010(20) defines "stolen" property.	166
167	<ul> <li>RCW 9A.56.140 (Possessing stolen property in the second degree) and</li> </ul>	167
168	RCW 9A.56.170 (Trafficking in stolen property).	168
169	11. Carrier Lockout Triggered by Blacklisted IMEI	169
170	11.1. Because the device's IMEI was flagged in the GSMA or other stolen-phone databases, Plaintiff's	170

171	carrier, Visible, automatically "blacklisted" or locked Plaintiff's cellular account.	171
172	• Industry best practices per CTIA guidelines direct carriers to lock or block stolen IMEIs to stem phone	172
173	theft and fraud.	173
174	• Federal oversight under 47 U.S.C. § 201(b) allows carriers to protect subscribers from the use of stolen	174
175	devices on their networks.	175
176	11.2. Visible informed Plaintiff that they cannot unlock the account until the device is cleared from "stolen"	176
177	status. Amazon, however, declined to produce or facilitate official IMEI clearance documentation.	177
178	12. Amazon's Response and Imposition of Restocking Fee	178
179	12.1. Personal Drop-Off: Amazon demanded that Plaintiff personally deliver the device to a designated	179
180	drop-off site for return, effectively requiring Plaintiff to handle stolen property—potentially implicating	180
181	Plaintiff in "trafficking" if not done in coordination with law enforcement.	181
182	• See RCW 9A.56.170(1) ("A person who knowingly initiates, organizes, plans, finances, directs, manages,	182
183	or supervises the theft of property and traffics in such stolen property" is guilty of trafficking in stolen	183
184	property).	184
185	<ul> <li>Although Plaintiff lacked criminal intent, the forced return procedure created legal and logistical peril.</li> </ul>	185
186	12.2. 20% Restocking Fee: Defendant insisted that since the return request was made outside the 90-day	186
187	window, a 20% restocking fee applied—even though the phone was stolen before Plaintiff's purchase and	187
188	that stolen status was not discoverable through ordinary consumer diligence.	188
189	• Such a fee may constitute an "unfair or deceptive act or practice" under RCW 19.86.020, as recognized in	189
190	Hangman Ridge Training Stables, Inc. v. Safeco Title Ins. Co., 105 Wn.2d 778 (1986) and subsequent	190
191	Washington Consumer Protection Act ("WCPA") case law.	191
192	13. Extended Lockout of All Personal/Financial Accounts	192
193	13.1. Due to the "SIM/IMEI mismatch" and blacklisted device, Visible locked Plaintiff's entire cellular line for	193
194	over three weeks (as of filing), preventing reception of two-factor authentication codes and calls.	194
195	• Many banks, email services, investment accounts, and personal services require phone-based verification	195
196	for account access.	196
197	13.2. Plaintiff has thereby been unable to access or manage vital financial and personal accounts, incurring	197
198	substantial monetary losses (e.g., missed payments, late fees) and intangible harm (stress, reputational	198
199	impact, etc.).	199
200	• This harm is a direct and proximate result of Amazon's facilitation of stolen property sales.	200
201	14. No Good Title from a Thief	201
202	14.1. Under RCW 62A.2-403(1) and well-settled UCC principles, "A purchaser of goods acquires all title	202
203	which the transferor had or had power to transfer." A thief has no valid title, so subsequent purchasers	203
204	cannot obtain lawful title.	204
205	• Baughn v. Honda Motor Co., Ltd., 107 Wn.2d 127 (1986) (implied warranties and product legitimacy	205

209	14.2. As a result, the phone is effectively contraband, and the carrier is justified in locking the associated	209
210	account until the stolen IMEI classification is cleared or overridden by lawful documentation—which	210
211	Amazon has not provided.	211
212	15. Damages to Plaintiff	212
213	15.1. Economic and personal disruption from extended cellphone lockout, including inability to execute	213
214	financial transactions, loss of access to personal email or accounts, and missed deadlines.	214
215	15.2. Costs incurred to return the stolen device, risk of handling stolen goods, and the withheld 20%	215

224	COUNT I – VIOLATION OF THE WASHINGTON CONSUMER PROTECTION ACT (RCW 19.86)	224
225	16. WCPA Liability	225
226	16.1. Under RCW 19.86.020, "Unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or	226
227	commerce are hereby declared unlawful."	227
228	16.2. Hangman Ridge Training Stables v. Safeco Title, 105 Wn.2d 778 (1986), establishes a five-part test	228
229	for a private CPA claim, including (1) an unfair or deceptive act or practice, (2) occurring in trade or	229
230	commerce, (3) public interest impact, (4) injury to the plaintiff, and (5) causation.	230
231	17. Unfair or Deceptive Acts	231
232	17.1. Defendant's facilitation of the sale of stolen property under "Prime," and subsequent imposition of a	232
233	restocking fee despite the item's contraband status, is an unfair or deceptive practice likely to mislead	233
234	reasonable consumers.	234
235	17.2. Charging a restocking fee for a stolen product that was never lawfully merchantable is	235

King County Superior Court - Bo Shang vs Amazon Inc

243	Ridge.	243
244	19. Relief Under WCPA	244
245	19.1. Pursuant to RCW 19.86.090, Plaintiff seeks actual damages, treble damages (up to the statutory	245
246	maximum), and reasonable attorneys' fees (if Plaintiff retains counsel or any pro se fees are allowable),	246
247	along with costs of suit.	247
248		248
249	COUNT II – BREACH OF IMPLIED WARRANTY OF MERCHANTABILITY (RCW 62A.2-314)	249
250	20. Warranty of Merchantability	250
251	20.1. Under RCW 62A.2-314, goods sold by a merchant carry an implied warranty of merchantability—they	251
252	must be fit for the ordinary purposes for which such goods are used and must be lawfully transferable.	252
253	20.2. A stolen device cannot be lawfully resold, which destroys any notion of "merchantability."	253
254	21. No Good Title	254
255	21.1. RCW 62A.2-403(1) clarifies that a thief cannot pass good title to subsequent purchasers. The phone's	255
256	status as stolen renders it unmerchantable from the outset.	256
257	22. Proximate Cause and Damages	257
258	22.1. Plaintiff's purchase of the stolen Pixel 7A and the resulting lockout constitute a direct and proximate	258
259	consequence of Defendant's breach.	259
260	22.2. Plaintiff incurred:	260
261	The phone's purchase price and wrongful restocking fee.	261
262	Costs associated with returning the contraband device.	262
263	• Extended phone service lockout and corresponding damages (lost access to finances, personal data,	263
264	etc.).	264
265		265
266	COUNT III - NEGLIGENCE / NEGLIGENT MISREPRESENTATION	266
267	23. Duty of Care	267
268	23.1. Defendant owed a duty of care to consumers purchasing "Prime" items, including a duty to ensure	268
269	items are not stolen.	269
270	• Mbewe v. Amazon.com, Inc., No. 2:18-cv-00848-RAJ, 2019 WL 2994693 (W.D. Wash. July 9, 2019)	270
271	(recognizing arguments that Amazon owes certain duties relating to listings and product authenticity).	271
272	• Erie Ins. Co. v. Amazon.com, Inc., 925 F.3d 135 (4th Cir. 2019) (discussing possible liability under	272
273	product liability / negligence theories).	273
274	24. Breach	274
275	24.1. By failing to verify or adequately screen for stolen IMEIs, Defendant allowed contraband merchandise	275
276	to enter the stream of commerce, breaching its duty to consumers.	276
277	24.2. Defendant also misrepresented or negligently labeled the Pixel 7A as a legitimate "Prime" product,	277

leading Plaintiff to rely on that representation.

279	25. Causation and Damages	279
280	25.1. Plaintiff reasonably relied on Amazon's "Prime" branding. Had Plaintiff known the device was stolen,	280
281	Plaintiff would not have purchased it.	281
282	25.2. Defendant's negligence and misrepresentations caused Plaintiff foreseeable harm, including phone	282
283	lockout, financial disruption, and personal inconvenience.	283

286		286
287	WHEREFORE, Plaintiff prays for judgment against Defendant as follows:	287
288	1. Compensatory Damages	288
289	1.1. For the purchase price of the Pixel 7A;	289
290	1.2. The wrongful 20% restocking fee;	290
291	1.3. Costs/time expended returning stolen property;	291
292	1.4. Damages for the multi-week lockout from critical accounts and services (financial, personal, etc.), in an	292
293	amount to be proven at trial.	293
294	2. Treble Damages	294
295	2.1. As authorized by RCW 19.86.090 for willful or knowing violations of the WCPA, up to the statutory	295
296	maximum.	296
297	3. Injunctive Relief	297
298	3.1. Prohibiting Amazon from charging restocking fees on stolen products;	298
299	3.2. Requiring Amazon to implement enhanced inventory/IMEI checks to avoid facilitating the sale of stolen	299
300	devices;	300
301	3.3. Compelling Amazon to cooperate directly with carriers (Visible, etc.) to expedite IMEI clearance in	301
302	cases of stolen device sales, preventing indefinite consumer lockouts.	302
303	4. Attorneys' Fees and Costs	303
304	4.1. Pursuant to RCW 19.86.090 (CPA), if Plaintiff obtains counsel or if any pro se fee provision is	304
305	determined applicable.	305
306	5. Pre- and Post-Judgment Interest	306
307	5.1. As allowed by law.	307

EXHIBIT 1: An American seller advertised to benefit from Amazon Prime shipping, refuses return for a stolen phone they sold.

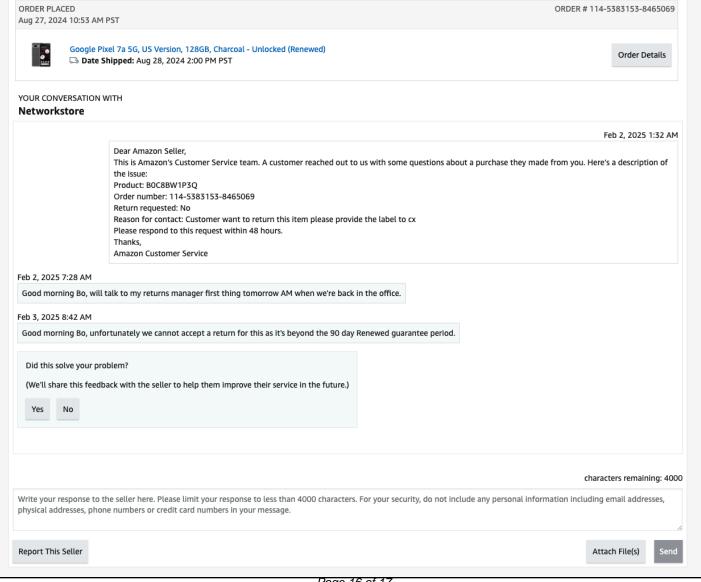

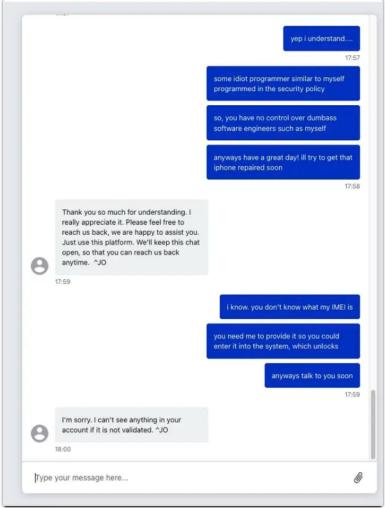

EXHIBIT 2: The Plaintiff's Visible cell phone account was locked by Amazon Prime, and as a result he also lost access to all personal financial accounts as well as most other accounts. The Plaintiff wonders if he should visit servers hosted via the onion protocol and borrow some authentication credentails from the FBI instead of using Amazon Prime.

Loser Persistent Threats (LPT)

In contrast to truly advanced threats, Loser Persistent Threats (LPT) are low-effort attempts by individuals who try to access someone else's account credentials without much sophistication. A prime example of this was when eggplant_emoji \(\bigcirc\) intentionally leaked his plaintext password on Twitter to observe how far a wannabe attacker would go.

In this anecdote, Mark Leon (aka mastermind of the KKK group, who is probably co-owner of viewbots.com but also works customer service) immediately jumped on the leaked credentials. Mark attempted to log into eggplant_emoji \( \cdot\) 's Google account numerous times, triggering multiple security alerts. However, Mark could not bypass 2FA (Two-Factor Authentication), illustrating one of the key protective measures that can stop such unsophisticated attempts. Once eggplant_emoji \( \cdot\) grew bored, he simply changed the Google account password through accounts.google.com and ended the show.
